

NMKRV College for Women, Bengaluru, launches 4 Bachelor of Vocation (B.Voc) courses

Indian education system is based on input and now for the first time we have moved from input based education to outcome based education. This is a paradigm shift in our education system. Bachelor of Vocation (B Voc) is a full- fledged Degree program approved by Universities Grants Commission (UGC) and recognized by Universities all over India and abroad. So, after a B Voc Degree with a particular skill set, one can apply for specific skill based Visa rather than general work permit for foreign immigration. Closer home, it also means that B Voc has all the privileges another Degree holder (BA, B Com, B Sc , B E or MBBS) enjoys, like going for Post Graduation, taking UPSC, Bank, Railways exam etc., where basic Degree is a requirement.

This course aims at allowing an individual to acquire skills for a particular trade. These are non-academic. The course deals with application based studies rather than depending on theoretical knowledge completely. Vocational studies cover a wide range of . The course specializes on providing practical training, and hence is can be regarded as a skill development degree.

Four B.Voc courses from NMKRV that provide skill-based education and training to prepare you for a job or entrepreneurship

- B.Voc in Audio Visual Production and Film Making
- B.Voc in Web Design and Mobile Application Development
- B.Voc in Banking , Accounts and Finance
- B.Voc in Hospital Management

Advantage of the B.Voc Program

A person can take an exit in between the 3 years course by taking a Diploma or Advanced Diploma degree. It is industry and work integrated course. An individual's knowledge and skill is valued at every level and she will be qualified for suitable jobs. The course consist of 60% vocational training or practical and 40% of general education i.e. theory. B.Voc. course is financially aided by the University Grant Commission (UGC). The course complies with the rules of National Skills Qualification Framework (NSQF).

These days industries expect employees to posses all types of practical skills and knowledge so therefore B.Voc course caters to the needs of business and industries.
